With all the uncertainty, it is becoming abundantly clear that turning these important resources into engaging, online training modules is a relatively inexpensive and effective way to still provide the training needed in a safer, more updated and sustainable format.

Make the training switch.

FLEXIBILITY

In our rapidly changing environment, flexibility is imporant. Online training provides broad flexbility compared to in-person training.

LEARNER RETENTION

Online training can help learners retain information with short videos, animations, interactive elements, quizzes and creative fonts and images.

PROGRESS REPORTING

Progress reporting is a benefit for both learner and trainer as both can monitor how well the information is being retained as well as the trainer being able to monitor the progress of all learners.

CENTRALIZED RESOURCE HUB

When online training is created and used, a central resources hub is built where employees can always access the information they need at anytime they need it.

PRICE

Online training is simply more cost-effective and sustainable than in-person training for reaching larger audiences and for organizations who are constantly training employees.

FIVE BENEFITS OF ONLINE TRAINING
